

BIG PARADE TO FEATURE ARMISTICE DAY!

PREDICTIONS OF WORLD SHORTAGE IN WHEAT

American Corn Crop Is Smallest One Since 1913, Official Report

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 10.—There was a jump of 5 cents per 100 pounds in wheat futures this afternoon on the Liverpool grain market as a result of predictions of a world wheat shortage. Advance crop reports caused considerable anxiety.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The department of agriculture this afternoon estimated the world wheat production this year at 2,740,095,000 bushels, compared with 3,050,005,000 in 1923.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The American corn crop this year is 669,749,000 bushels short of the 1923 crop and is the smallest the country has experienced since 1913, the department of agriculture announced this afternoon.

Translated into dollars and cents at the market price on October 15 the date on which the report was based, this represents a loss to the American farmer this year of $728,900,000.

The short crop prevails this year, notwithstanding a slight increase in acreage. Not only is the volume cut down but there also has been a big drop in the quality of the crop, the department announced. Last year the quality was estimated at 79.4, but for 1924 the estimate is only 63.2.

Very Small Crop "The corn crop," said the department, "is by a small margin the smallest since 1914, and substantially lower than the crops of the last four years, which have averaged over three billion bushels."

Only 63.2 per cent of the crop is of merchantable quality. This is the lowest percentage of merchantability in thirty years, with the exception of the crop of 1917.

While the huge drop in production indicates a huge loss from the farmers' standpoint, actually the loss is purely a paper one and the corn grower is as well off this year. If not better off, then he was on last year's crop. This is due to the better prices commanded this year on account of the short crop.

Over most of the corn belt, the weather, said the department, during October was very favorable for maturing and drying the crop. Sections which were not frosted made material gains over earlier expectations. For the corn belt as a whole the estimates of production are about the same as the forecast of a month ago, but as a result of favorable weather, the quality is much better than seemed probable. Much corn that was frosted in Iowa and other states had dried out with a minimum of souring and moulding, though much of the frosted corn is chaffy, shriveled and loose on the cob.

The department estimated the American corn crop would total 2,477,538,000 bushels this year, compared with 3,046,387,000 bushels in 1923.

The quality of the corn crop is 63.2 per cent of normal, compared with 79.4 last year, and the farm price on October 15 was put at 108.9, compared with 84 cents on October 15, 1923.

The corn acreage this year is 105,604,000. Last year there were 104,158,000 acres. The yield per acre was forecast as 23.5 bushels this year, compared with 29.2 bushels in 1923.

Three and three-tenths per cent of the 1923 corn crop or 101,934,000 bushels are still on hand, the report said.

8 More Cruisers To Be Requested Of Next Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Following a conference today with President Coolidge, Senator Hale, Republican of Maine, chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, announced that at the opening of Congress he would urge immediate consideration of his bill authorizing the construction of eight cruisers and the conversion of six old coal burning battleships to oil burners.

LODGE BURIAL SERVICE TO BE SIMPLE

One of Greatest Men of Time, Is Tribute From President Coolidge

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Plans for a simple funeral for Henry Cabot Lodge were under consideration today. The Senate leader, whose thirty-one years of consecutive service was a record both in the time elapsed and in the power wielded, lost his stubborn fight against death shortly before midnight last night. Senator Lodge was born in 1850.

Simple funeral services, the exact hour of which has not been determined, will be held in Christ church in Cambridge on Wednesday. The body is at the home of Dr. William Sturges Bigelow, a lifelong friend of the dead senator.

Interment will be in the Lodge family plot at Mount Auburn cemetery. Only the unyielding will which he held to life as he did to his political convictions—a quality evinced against the League of Nations—kept the veteran senator alive after the stroke which he suffered November 5.

An operation for gall stones July 27 and a second operation for the same complaint three months later preceded the relapse. Until his collapse it was believed that his recovery from the second operation would be as speedy and remarkable in a man of his age as recovery from the first.

President Coolidge Pays Tribute to Famous Senator

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has been "one of the great men of our time," President Coolidge said today in a formal statement commenting on the death of the distinguished Massachusetts statesman.

President Coolidge today designated Secretary of War John Weeks to represent him at the funeral of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. The stress of official business will prevent the president from attending the funeral in person.

Captain Adolphus Andrews, the president's naval aide, will accompany Secretary Weeks to Boston, as will all members of the cabinet now in Washington.

REPUBLICANS OF CITY TO ORGANIZE

Hold Preliminary Gathering And Outline Plans for Permanent Club

More than fifty Republicans of the city rallied to the call of the Republican committee Saturday night and assisted in plans for a permanent organization in Glendale, the purposes of which will be to preserve the integrity of the party and to promote the exercising of the right to vote and the duties of citizenship.

R. S. Person was named temporary chairman and W. H. Richards, secretary. A committee of seven to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the permanent organization and another committee of fifteen on permanent organization were appointed by the chairman. They consist of the following:

By-laws and constitution committee: Judge Frank H. Lowe, A. T. Cowan, J. C. Sherer, H. V. Adams, Mrs. E. W. Hayward, Thomas H. Cornet and Eugene J. Wix.

Organization committee: Col. James W. Everington, Col. J. D. Fraser, Dr. C. Kaemmerling, H. D. Charlton, C. E. Kimlin, J. A. Endicott, R. T. Crosswell, L. H. Wilson, Percy J. Hayselden, Eva Daniels, Mrs. Grant Stewart, David Crofton, Owen C. Emery, Gould E. Warren and T. D. Watson.

Systematic Work In impressing the need of a permanent Republican organization in Glendale, Chairman Person outlined briefly a number of the more important things which would be undertaken. Besides the primary purposes of preserving party unity and encouraging a large voting population and observance of the duties of citizenship, the Republican club will aid in the registration of voters, appointing a sufficient number of local deputy registrars to handle the work; will appoint committees to look out for first voters and all newcomers in the city, getting them acquainted and registered; prepare absentee ballots; see that proper polling places are designated by the county so that the work of election officials can be handled efficiently and promote the work of naturalization.

To handle all these branches of the work already outlined, a number of committees will be appointed as soon as the permanent organization is got under way.

Make Short Talks A number of Republicans spoke at the meeting, which was held in the council chambers at the city hall. Among them were Judge Frank Lowe, H. V. Adams, Ferdinand Godeffroy, J. C. Sherer, A. T. Cowan, Chief of Police Fraser, Col. James W. Everington, Percy Hayselden, Mrs. Grant Stewart and Captain Tighe. These expressed their enthusiasm at the idea of a permanent club in Glendale to hold high the banner of Republicanism and stand solidly behind the president of the United States and the administration officers. They lauded the success of the Republican club here in getting out a 79 per cent vote at the recent election.

One of the important items which will be taken up at the next meeting will be the choice of an official name for the club. It has been suggested that the name be the "Lincoln Republican Club of Glendale," and that the annual meeting be designated to take place on Abraham Lincoln's birthday, February 12. If this suggestion is adopted, officers will be elected at this time, to serve only until February, when permanent executives will be named.

The time and place of the next meeting will be announced later by Chairman Person through The Glendale Evening News, it was decided.

GANG LEADER MURDERED IN STORE

Millionaire Bootlegger Shot Down; Mute Evidence By Police Dog

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—"Dean" O'Bannon, one of Chicago's most colorful police characters, whom prohibition and its attendant beer-running and high-jacking is said to have brought millions, was shot and killed in his floral store here today.

It was to this store that O'Bannon, gang leader and gang fighter, pistol wielder and veteran of several shootings, had retired for a quiet end to a life replete with excitement and danger.

One man was arrested in connection with the case shortly before noon. The evidence against him is solely the mute testimony of a German police dog, who, taken to the scene of the killing, led police officers unerringly to the man's door.

The man refused to reveal the man's identity and he was hurried away to prevent a possible outbreak of mob violence.

HUGE SLASH PROPOSED IN TAXES

More Than $100,000,000 May Be Cut From Income And Leave Surplus

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH For International News Service. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The United States treasury tax reform program, shaping into definite form today, indicated that it may be possible to slash more than $100,000,000 off government income for 1926 and yet maintain a few million dollars surplus. Officials said that would make possible a material cut in taxation.

The real drive for tax revision is anticipated at the initial session of the 69th Congress. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in his annual report to the December Congress, however, will deal with the tax situation, making similar recommendations to those partially disregarded at the last session.

Figures compiled at the treasury show that the 1924 revenue act cut government incomes $470,000,000 this calendar year and $351,000,000 resulted from income tax cuts.

In 1925 the government's income will increase about $150,000,000 over 1924, under the present tax act, according to estimates. Secretary Mellon pointed out that "a decrease of taxes caused an inspiration to trade and commerce which increases the prosperity of the country so that the revenue of the government even on a lower basis of tax, is increased."

Treasury experts said that the schedules of the 1924 act pertaining to low incomes and those of the Mellon plan regarding surtaxes, may be re-enacted into law with reducing revenue over $100,000,000 the first year. Thereafter a material increase in revenue might be expected, they maintained.

"Every tax reduction since 1918 has resulted eventually in increased revenue," an official declared.

REV. CALDERWOOD ON WAR RESULTS

Congregational Pastor Cites
Mark Twain And Refutes
His Prayer

"The Case Against War" was the subject of the sermon delivered by Rev. C. M. Calderwood at the Congregational church, corner of North Central and Wilson avenues. Rev. Calderwood said:

"The following war prayer by Mark Twain may not be the verbal prayer of all who are engaged in war but it does express the desire of a large proportion of the fighters and of the combating nations:

"O Lord our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the wailing of the wounded; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn unavailing grief into a bitter turn of mind; help us to turn their children to wander unfriended through the wastes of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst.

Blast Their Hopes

"For our sakes who add Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet! We ask of one who is the ever-faithful refuge and friend of all who are sore beset, and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer, O Lord, and Thine shall be the praise and honor and glory, now and ever, Amen."

"This can never be the prayer of Christian people or Christian nations. Our prayer is for peace and good will among men. We can never pray to our God for the destruction of nations or individuals. The business of Christians is not the destruction of the world but its salvation. The greatest, most colossal, most terrible and horrible sin of the world is its war system, and we must pray and work for its abolition. War is wrong in its methods. It is wrong in its results. It is un-Christian. I took a part in the last war myself. But the war system for settling disputes is contrary to the laws of God and the teachings of the Prince of Peace.

War Means Destruction

"Another great war means the destruction of civilization. No innocent person will be saved. The new engines, weapons and poisons of warfare are ten times more terrible than during the last war. We want to prevent war. We must be willing to pay a big price to prevent it or we will be compelled to pay a much bigger price for having it. We have had suggested a number of measures for the prevention of war, such as military preparedness, parades, resolutions, open diplomacy, popular referendums, disarmament, treaties, outlawry of war, League of Nations, World Court. None of these will avail if there is not a disarmament of the mind. We must see the futility and evil of both the methods and the results of war. Unless we are as considerate of the welfare of other nations as of our own there will be war. As Will Wilson says, 'It is Christ or Mars.' We need a militant (not military) aggressive, definite preparation for world peace. If the church does not do this, both the church and civilization will be thrown into the rubbish heap."

MOTIVE OF LIFE IS SERMON TOPIC

Rev. Edmonds Tells Need
Of Driving Power In Human Endeavor

Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the Glendale Presbyterian church spoke Sunday morning on the subject, "The Driving Power of a Noble Life," and based his remarks on the fourteenth and fifteenth verses of the first chapter of Romans. He said in part:

"The key of the Epistle of Romans is stated in the opening words, 'Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ.' This is his autobiography. Paul's portrait of himself. He is careful to paint but a single feature into the portrait—service. The book answers two questions: What is the driving power of a life of service, some articles of the creed of a man who wrote himself a servant of Christ into history, not of a nation, nor an age, but of the world. In the very opening of this letter Paul reveals the basic motive of his life in the words 'I am debtor.'"

"Paul was an enthusiastic servant. His master was his hero. Paul states highest ambition when he says, 'Whose I am and whom I serve.' Hence I shall try to assemble out of this wonderful letter some of the big convictions of a life of service, some articles of the creed of a man who wrote himself a servant of Christ into history, not of a nation, nor an age, but of the world. In the very opening of this letter Paul reveals the basic motive of his life in the words 'I am debtor.'"

Motive of Life

"Life is to be estimated by its motives, not its professions. What is your motive, I ask, for your motive is the dynamo that drives your life. What the power house is to a factory, so motive is to life."

"Paul says 'I am debtor,' hence his life. His motive was born of a supernatural experience. Some people do not like the word, but I am glad some things are too big for phraseology of the natural. Paul's life motive was born of contact with the eternal. There on the Damascus way the eternal Christ broke the way and the blinding glory was a revelation of what he owed, not civilization, but to one who loved Him and had given Himself for him."

"Then and there Paul said 'I am debtor.' He was more than a Jew, more than a world citizen; he has become an internationalist, because he has caught Christ's world vision. Being a debtor to Christ, he must see what Christ sees; must be concerned for those for whom Christ is concerned; must take on his heart burdens which rest on the heart of Christ. Supernatural Element."

"Consider what he summoned him to endure: bonds and imprisonment await him; stripes and stones; delivered to death for Christ's sake. In wearying journeyings, in perils on land and sea, never wavering, pushed on by that one motive, 'I am debtor.' Not because people have done anything for me; they may not know me. But I have something they need: Hungry people, I have bread. Thirsty ones, I have the water of life."

"We must get the supernatural element in our lives; have within us the Divine power, that we may say with Paul, 'I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me.' This is in a peculiar and prominent sense the motive which must drive the church in its world mission to the lost. What has been done for Christian America increases our debt. The gospel is the power of God, and its success in non-Christian lands is the modern miracle."

"There is nothing greater for either God or man than this: A life of service. Who then is willing this day to consecrate himself to a life of service?"

PASTOR GIVES TALK ON ARMISTICE DAY

Rev. G. W. Thomas Says
'We Shall Make World
Safe for Peace'

"We shall make the world safe for peace whenever we have the moral courage and the good sense to take the Ruler of the universe at His word," Rev. George W. Thomas said in his Armistice day sermon at the Grand View Community church yesterday.

"Jesus Christ knew what He was talking about when He told us to meet evil with good, rancor with kindness, provocation with blessing, and the sword with the cross. If we had believed Him and dared to live that way we should have accomplished in one generation what we have waited ages to see."

"This is a day great with memories of what we did and are proud to remember, of what we did and vowed we would never do again. But it ought to be greater with memories of what we covenanted with men about to die for their sakes that we would do for theirs."

Three Pledges

"We entered the war with three solemn pledges: That we would make the world safe for democracy; that we would make democracy safe for the world; that with this war all wars would end."

"There is only one way to end war and make the world safe for peace: Trust the way of the Christ who dares to disarm the motives and eliminate the hatreds of which wars are the logical outcome. Then we shall live His peace among men and nations forevermore."

'FRIENDSHIP' TEXT REV. KEMP'S TALK

St. Mark's Episcopal Pastor
Says Church Principle
Is Brotherhood

Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, delivered a sermon on "The Christian Doctrine of Friendship" at the church yesterday. He said:

"The chief work of the Christian church is that of building the kingdom. This thought is stressed as much in St. John as in the other gospels, though there we read more about the will of God than of the kingdom."

"Jesus, according to St. John, said ye are my friends if ye do what I command you, these things I command you that ye love one another. Our work is then to do away with everything that prevents the spirit of love from having sway in the hearts of men. This is not limited to the narrow circle of those who call themselves Christians but goes to the utmost boundaries of the world."

Mission of Church

"Mission of the church is to make Christ's principle of brotherhood prevail. There are several outstanding challenges to the Christian church of today. There is that great disgrace of our civilization the war system that negates the very thought of love. As we approach Armistice day let us pray for a warless world and join the ranks of those bold souls who would have us outlaw war as a method of settling disputes between nations."

"There also is the challenge of a non-Christian industrial system. The spirit of Christian brotherhood must help us break down the barriers that divide men. The spirit of service must be supreme. Jesus said this is my commandment that ye love one another. A non-Christian industrialism makes true Christian brotherhood an impossibility. These are some of the challenges that the pagan spirit of our times is casting at the Christian church. How shall we answer it?"

'GOD'S GIVING' IS JOHNSON'S TALK

'Live-Wire' Preacher Tells Congregation God Has Given His Love

"God's Giving" was the subject of the morning sermon yesterday by Rev. M. M. (Live-Wire) Johnson, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church. Quoting Romans 8:32, "He that spared not His own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?" he explained what God has already given; what He continues to give, and the basis of His gifts. He said in part:

"What has God given to us? His great love, our every blessing and His own Son. God's giving is on love, and love is based on His grace. To realize the extent of God's love, of His grace and of His giving, we must have constantly in mind the truth that He loved the unlovely and the 'lovable.' The grace of God means the undeserved goodness and favor of God, and His giving and gifts are but the fruits of His love. He came unto His own, and His own received Him not."

God's Love for Man

"God would never have spared this sinful world this long if substitution for our guilt and satisfaction for our sins had not been made by Jesus Christ on Calvary's cross. So great was God's love for man, that when He looked down from the windows of heaven, and saw the giving but hatred, malice, confusion, murder, death and unbelief, His great heart of love in compassion, gave to this old world the greatest of all gifts—His only Son, to die by the hands of His enemies. There could have been no other gift so costly, and how ungrateful was the world!—God gave man roses, but man gave Him only thorns."

"In gratitude we should give to God our substance, our time, our talents, our life. How pathetically beautiful was Jesus' unselfish prayer on the cross—'Father, forgive them.'"

'Nobleman's Faith' Is Rev. Kringle's Sermon

Rev. Henry Kringle delivered the morning sermon at the Zion Evangelical Lutheran (Missouri Synod) church, at corner of North Isabel and East California avenues, yesterday, taking as his topic, "The Nobleman's Faith," from John 4:46-54. REV. COLE TALKS AGAIN ABOUT WAR

Central Christian Pastor In Armistice Day Sermon Reasons Against

"War or Civilization" was the subject of the Armistice Day sermon delivered by Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, yesterday morning. Rev. Cole said:

"Neither shall they learn war any more." At no time has sarcasm over the contrast between ideals and actualities been easier than during and since the recent years. Learn war no more, when we have just passed through one that makes all other wars seem like popping corn compared to a thunderbolt! And when preparation for more wars goes merrily on! Yes, for to one who knows history and is at all capable of sensing the trend of the last six years, something else is apparent. Nothing is so powerful as an idea whose hour is come."

"It is apparent that there can be no peace except we find better ways of settling disputes than by appeal to the sword. When laws and courts were not adequate men used their fists and clubs. Until laws and courts are adequate nations will resort to guns and poison gasses. It boots little to say 'I will never fight again' if we do not make fighting impossible. This must be done, so say the leaders of the world, or civilization is doomed."

Four Great Steps

"Four great steps have been taken since the Armistice was signed that augur well toward the coming of permanent international peace. First, the organization of the League of Nations. Every action the league has taken has been against war. Americans do not realize the tremendous achievements of the league. Political propaganda has been an effective censor of its marvelous work. Fifty-four nations are in the league. It cannot be torn down; it has achieved success; but it can be changed and made better. Its record is incontestable and justifies its continued existence. It was my privilege to visit its sessions and to get first hand information as to its deeds."

"Second: At last we have a great world court that is always in session. It can settle any dispute the nations will submit to it. It lacks nothing except what the governments deny it. Give it jurisdiction and it will settle every dispute without war. Time is not for when civilized nations must come to submit their disputes to international courts. This one augurs much for the peace of the earth."

Third: The most encouraging happening since the Armistice was the signing of the protocol in September in Geneva which is the first practical step toward the outlawry of war. It defines the exact terms through which war can be outlawed and the aggressor nations named. It provides for court action to prevent war. It finds a way to mobilize the forces of mankind against the aggressor. This is the first universal treaty ever proposed to mankind. It makes it possible for the league and court to settle disputes. It makes it possible to outlaw war. But it will never be universally effective until America joins with other great powers to make it effective. The spectacle of the greatest nation of the world holding aloof from 'entangling' itself in the greatest achievement for peace is pathetic and nearly unforgivable."

Churches Do Part

Fourth: Churches of America are at last seeking to mobilize the conscience of mankind to make war impossible and to thus secure universal peace. That is the supreme business of Christianity so far as its influence touches the nations of the world. From the beginning of time war has never stimulated, and to the end of time war will never stimulate anything or anybody. War is the utter negation of all that the religion of Jesus stands for. The state may spend its time dilly-dallying with the problem of war; the church dare not. If in the future the church is to be more than an exhorting ambulance driver in world politics, it must choose now between Jesus and the generals. I heartily agree with the pronouncements of the leading religious bodies of America when, through the Federal Council of Churches, they say 'war is the chief collective sin. We are convinced that the whole war system of the nations is unnecessary and un-Christian.'"

"For centuries the dilemma between war and civilization has been growing. The church has endeavored to restrain, to abolish war's barbarisms, to limit its area and to bring the traces of God. We believe that humanity sees we can have war or civilization, but not both for long. May God hasten the day when 'we shall have war no more.'"

"In Flanders Field" "America's Answer"

In Flanders Field the poppies blow
Between the crosses—row on row—
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are the dead.
Short days ago we lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Field.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw
the torch;
Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, tho' poppies grow
In Flanders Field.

By R. W. LILLARD
Written after the death of Lieut. Col.
McCrae, author of "In Flanders Field"

Rest ye in peace, ye Flanders dead,
The fight that ye so bravely led We've taken up. And we will keep
True faith with you who lie asleep,
With each a cross to mark his bed,
And poppies blowing overhead,
Where once his own life blood ran red,
So let your rest be sweet and deep—
In Flanders Field.

Fear not that ye have died for naught;
The torch you threw to us we caught,
Ten million hands will hold it high,
And Freedom's light shall never die,
We've learned the lesson that you taught
In Flanders Field.

EDUCATIONAL WORTH IS GIVEN

Dr. Walter Dexter, President Of Whittier College, Speaks at Club

"The challenge of today is the challenge of knowledge," was the declaration of Dr. Walter Dexter, president of Whittier college, Saturday afternoon, when he addressed the Glendale College Women's club at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse on "The Trend of Modern Education."

This is Dr. Dexter's second address to Glendalians within recent months, and in the same masterful way in which he spoke on community life at the first forum dinner of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, he gave Saturday a scholarly and comprehensive address on educational affairs of today.

There are four outstanding phases of the trend of education today, according to Dr. Dexter. He places first tests and measurements, which offer opportunity for study of mental capacity.

Determine Ability

"We first determine the mental ability of a student and then fit him for the task of life he is best fitted for. This is not only one of the phases of the trend of modern education, but is dominant in the trend of modern American life," said Dr. Dexter. "Modern education can take an individual as far as he has ability and ambition to go."

In developing his subject the speaker gave as the second phase the establishing of educational ideas and aims, enabling the individual "to make a living as well as a life." He added, "This is in keeping with all other great aims of modern life and thought. Prepare people for the great art of home-making; prepare them for entrance into citizenship; prepare them for vocations, and teach them the right use of leisure."

The two final phases are method or development of attitudes to life, and development of a philosophy of life. In discussing these he made a plea for friendship and fellowship between students and teachers.

Sixty Present

There were sixty club members and guests present for the luncheon, preceding Dr. Dexter's address.

TURKEYS TO COST LESS IN 1924

Thanksgiving Gobblers Will Retail Below Price of Last Season

Your Thanksgiving gobbler in Glendale will cost from 3 to 5 cents less per pound this year than it did last season, according to early reports from local butcher shops where signs to "order now" are out. The prediction that 45 cents per pound will prevail as against 48 cents to 50 cents a year ago, was voiced today by a number of marketmen in spite of news dispatches from Chicago to the effect that market prices there would be the same as last year.

At 45 cents, a steady decrease in price has prevailed each Thanksgiving for several years. In 1922 the strutting gobbler brought from 60 cents to 65 cents. There is an abundance of turkeys this season, although not as many as there were last, it is said. The fact that there is no shortage, that large shipments of eastern birds are already being received, and that the demand is comparatively light, are contributing causes to the 3 to 5 cent drop.

The market in Southern California has not fully recovered from the disastrous tumble. Ice took last Christmas when the local houses became clogged with eastern fowl. There are no cold storage birds to offer, as all the big packing plants were entirely cleared out during the foot and mouth epidemic.

Opening prices announced by several of the large packing houses in Los Angeles were quoted at 38 cents wholesale, but jumps to as high as 44 cents have since been recorded. The market on the whole is yet very much unsettled, it was stated.

Founder Of Clinic Here

DR. HENRY R. HARROWER, who has created the Harrower Foundation and the Harrower Foundation Clinic, which is formally opened today. He has been a resident of Glendale for the past ten years.

In a great many ways, the opening of The Harrower Foundation Clinic, which takes place today, is typical of Glendale. This clinic is the outcome and the fruition of the work that has occupied and stimulated Dr. Henry R. Harrower for years, and which he has followed with his characteristic enthusiasm and optimism.

While Dr. Harrower has been a resident of Glendale for barely one decade, yet much has happened in that span of time, which not only is of interest to the inhabitants of our city, but which has made a deep impression upon medical men and upon their patients throughout the United States and, in fact, all over the civilized world.

In John Calvin Sherer's "History of Glendale and Vicinity," a volume that was published two years ago by the Glendale History Publishing Co., a biographical sketch may be found of Dr. Harrower which will give all the salient facts. Of his life's work it said:

"About fifteen years ago, the writer of this article first met Dr. Harrower in Chicago, where he was director of the research department of the Abbott Laboratories, an important and successful firm of manufacturing chemists who produce valuable remedial agents for the use of the medical profession. Dr. Harrower then impressed and attracted all those who came in contact with him because of his indomitable enthusiasm and optimism, because of his inexhaustible resourcefulness, and because such a thing as failure didn't seem to be in his dictionary."

"In 1912 Dr. Harrower became keenly interested in the study of the endocrines, that is to say, little glands with internal secretions (also called 'blood glands') which has long puzzled physiologists and physicians, and concerning which usable information has become available only in recent years. The productive study of these little organs, starting with that of the thyroid gland, was undertaken within the lifetime of many of us, and the writer well remembers the work of the late Professor Kocher, of Berne, Switzerland, whose daring operations for the correction of goiter aroused attention in the early eighties of the last century. Since then, medical men in England, in France, in Italy, and elsewhere, have become keenly interested in the subject and, in 1903, an American scientist, Dr. C. de M. Sajous, of Philadelphia, published a large two-volume work on the subject, which is classic in its ingenious and masterly handling of the subject, howbeit it was so far ahead of its time as to be prophetic."

"When Dr. Harrower became interested in this subject in 1912, he did things in his accustomed aggressive manner; he studied as much of the available literature on the subject as he could get hold of and produced, in 1914, a textbook on the subject of 'Practical Hormone Therapy,' which even more recent discoveries and observations have not proved to be out of date. It was owing to his energy, no less than to his magnetic personality and vigorous pursuit of ideals, that Dr. Harrower succeeded in arousing the interest of other notable medical men. The result was that he was instrumental in founding the As-

SEEKS DEER BUT FINDS THRILLS

Caught In Snowstorm In Big Forest, Forced to Sleep On Mountain Top

Thrills rivaling fiction were experienced by Sydney Williams, 511 South Glendale avenue, who was taken to the desert country of Arizona and Utah by Dr. L. H. Pernor of Tujunga, in the last month, according to the story of the men who returned to Glendale Saturday.

Caught in a snow storm in the Kaibab forest, it was necessary for them to beat a retreat to Kanab, Utah, over thirty miles of tortuous trail along the Grand Canyon. Dr. Pernor chopped ice and snow from the windshield while Williams drove the machine.

In the same storm a tree fell on the car and ripped a hole in the top. Prior to that they had been forced to sleep on a mountain top. They ran out of gasoline on the desert and found that checks on Glendale banks, accredited membership in the Auto club and other aids, would not help them without cash. The last two days they had nothing to eat for lack of funds in the sparsely settled territory of Arizona and California.

Bring Antlers

Among the prizes they brought back from the trip were the horns of four deer, including one eight-pointer which has its head intact and will be mounted. There are 50,000 deer in the Kaibab forest and the government has let a contract to a cattleman to drive them across the Grand Canyon into Arizona for spring feeding rather than let them die, Dr. Pernor states.

Leaving Glendale a month ago in the doctor's Chandler car they

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Welcome rains visited the southland over the week-end. It seems as though Mother Nature is joining in the conspiracy to promote prosperity. Not to say that Glendale hasn't much to be thankful for this coming Thanksgiving. No place the writer knows about has enjoyed any greater share of health, wealth and happiness, although there may be some individuals who have not had all they wanted of these. You simply can't satisfy everybody.

Glendale is forging to the front again this year in building and with a whirlwind finish, it will outdo last year's record—which was a pace-setter. And this city has good cause to build now, for prices of materials are going to higher levels within the next ninety days.

You do not have to take anyone's word for it. Prices of all commodities are going up with the stock market. It is an unalterable fact. So, if you have something to buy or build, DO IT NOW!

With higher prices, Glendale merchants may expect a whale of a trade this coming Christmas season. Business is going to be not only good, but BETTER than ever before. People who have been thinking about buying this, that and the other thing are going to DEMAND delivery of the goods very shortly. If you've got what they want, look out! You won't have it long.

Real estate sales are picking up. In fact, they are brisk. Vacant property is in demand, and "snaps" in homes are being "picked up" like hot cakes and maple syrup these mornings. Yes, sir! Just look at the classified columns of The Glendale Evening News if you don't believe real estate business is booming. They are the barometer.

More deaths from poison booze are reported in Los Angeles papers today. Also, there is the report that the dry officers will make Southern California look like the Sahara, as far as liquor is concerned.

Personally speaking, the prohibition enforcement business is "the bunk." The government doesn't have enough men at wages large enough to attract efficient operatives, to cope with the situation.

Of course, the man who buys or drinks illicit liquor should know better. Just try to tell 'em. You'll be mobbed by the scoundrels.

Your earning ability is not a thing you can always count on—for it may be cut off any day through illness or business conditions. An income from a safe investment is something you can always count on.

Building up a future income—providing yourself with a pension, as it were, makes systematic saving fascinating and easy. As your savings fund multiplies, your income increases with it. You know that each $1000 laid away at 8%, starts adding $80 a year permanently to your earnings.

You can purchase 2 shares of Preferred and 1 share of Common for $200—paying only $20 down and $10 a month. You will receive 8% on the Preferred, and a share in the profits as paid on the Common stock. Thus, in addition to receiving 8% on every dollar invested, you will receive a share in all the profits.

Start today to save for your future income. $20 invested each month will become $6,500 in 15 years. $50 invested each month at 8% will become over $16,000 in 15 years. This would mean an income of $1280 a year!

Daily Greeting to News Readers

How strong and sweet my Father's care!
The word, like music in the air,
Comes, answering to my whispered prayer—
"He cares for thee."

—Marianne Farningham.

BONUS OR BUNK

Fewer than a third of the world war veterans entitled to the bonus under the national act have applied for it. The authorities are unable to account for this, for even though a majority of ex-service men did not want the bonus it was not thought they would fail to take advantage of the measure after it was authorized by Congress.

The truth of the matter is, there was no call for such a measure. Even among the veterans the demand was not great. President Coolidge, in the interest of economy, vetoed the measure, but Congress had to throw a sop to the soldier vote, and the service men are beginning to realize now, as one soldier puts it, that they didn't get bonus, but bunk.

One of the arguments in favor of the measure was that large numbers of service men were urgently in need of the proposed aid, but the nature of the bonus is not such as to relieve needs of this kind. The government should make better provision for our disabled veterans. They should not be objects of charity. They should be generously compensated without unnecessary detail and delay. The taxpayers, as a whole, would certainly approve of any measure that would give these men justice. But, the rank and file of the men who came out of the army in good health did not demand a bonus, even though they were inadequately paid for their services to their country. The fact that two-thirds of them have not applied for the bonus would go to show that they do not care very much about it, or else that they are disappointed in the nature of it.

However, since Congress has been so generous, it is foolish for any ex-soldier to fail to put in his application for the bonus before January 1.

THE YOUTH AND HIS LIFE WORK

It is the most natural thing in the world for parents to wish to keep their children young, to say, "Youth must have its fling," and to extend their playtime beyond the years when they would naturally assume the responsibilities of manhood and womanhood.

Grandfather was a man at eighteen. Grandson, at eighteen, considers himself a man, but he does not assume any of the responsibilities of manhood, only its prerogatives. Parents and educational methods today are encouraging children to postpone the time of beginning the job of making their fate and fortune until there is positively no further excuse for delay.

In centuries past it often happened that mere youth occupied the highest positions in circles of literature, art, drama and military tactics. What a contrast with today when the world does not expect anything from youth but indolence and dissipation.

Some one has said that "the rarest flowers are latest in bloom," and it may be that the present tendency to give youth an extension of time is the best. But youth is the time when habits are formed, and if our boys and girls do not form the habit of hard work, who is going to do the work the world is waiting to have done? And there comes a time in the life of every person when he looks back and wishes he had made a greater use of his time and his resources.

Youth always says, "Enjoy yourself while you can." Old age cries, "O, if I were young again!" What a pity that youth is not permitted to look for a moment out of the eyes of age.

PARTY GOVERNMENT

Almost as important as the election of Coolidge and Dawes is the fact that there will be a Republican majority in both the Senate and the House. In the last Congress Republican members joined the radical group and opposed the administration at every turn, thereby blocking legislation and progress. The overwhelming vote for Coolidge and Dawes should be sufficient evidence to the hold-over congressmen that the people of the United States want a Republican administration and a reversion to actual party government.

Along this line the San Bernardino Sun says: "There must be a well defined program of legislation, and only a party organization can accomplish such a program. If the program be wrong, then the entire party should be held responsible. If it be right, then the party should have the credit, not one individual or a group of individuals, for a cumbersome Congress cannot be operated by individuals. It can only be guided by party organization."

The Congress elected November 4 will not go into power for another thirteen months, unless the president calls a special session, but the present members of the Senate and House ought to be able to see the hand-writing on the wall. President Coolidge was re-elected by the largest popular vote ever given a president. This should entitle him to leadership in Congress.

AMERICA AS COUNSELOR

Aloofness and indifference on the part of the United States in her foreign relations could never have achieved the results that have been brought about in Europe through the agency of America and Americans. Myron Herrick, our ambassador to France, a man abundantly qualified by his pre-war and his post-war services abroad, says that we little realize the tremendous strength of America's moral influence as a nation abroad, and Europe's appreciation of our helpfulness and co-operation. He believes that the success achieved by the United States in establishing economic stability in Europe was due to America's being in the position of counselor and friend, rather than a party to continental entanglements. He believes that the nation not actuated by selfish motives can exert a greater moral influence than the one impelled by fear, prejudice or avarice.

The Dawes plan has proved that America can aid Europe without taking part in her brawls.

BIOGRAPHIES OF CRIMINALS

A breathless world is being regaled with the autobiography of an artist's model, likewise a badge bandit. It is not very likely that these stories will go very far in deterring others from following a like course if they should be disposed to do so. Reading the lives of great men and women would have a much more salutary effect. Why should a criminal be an important personage, anyway? The less publicity given to such people the better, especially after they have been apprehended. People of good sense are not interested in biographies of criminals or in personal reminiscences of obscure persons whose egotism is their only claim to greatness and the only agency through which they can get into the limelight.

"AIN'T WE GOT FUN?"

The Wreckers

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is a class of people who make a living out of wrecking or beach-combing. They lie in wait for ships that have been wrecked and gather up the fragments that have been strewn on the shore.

They are reminders of a certain kind of people that is met everywhere. Their business is to tear down, to destroy, to remove the waste. We even have them in the animal life and a large part of the insects and of the furry and winged wild things get their living by destroying other things or by handling the waste products.

An animal does not lie dead very long before the insects and carrion crows are at work removing the flesh from his bones, and he is never left until his bones are white.

A certain part of the human race are wreckers. The butchers take animal life in order to supply food for man.

The wood choppers fell trees and remove the growth from the land in order to make room for human habitation.

Undertakers remove human beings from the scene of their activity and scavengers remove the waste.

There are wreckers of ideas as well as of things. Some men seem to be gifted with the spirit of perpetual denial. They oppose, tear down and destroy other men's beliefs. Perhaps it is necessary to do this in order to remove the growth of superstition and possibly some good goes along with the bad. It is difficult to tear down evil without, at the same time, destroying that which is good.

Wreckers have their place in the human economy. There is no bread without the destruction of grain, and most of our clothes are raked from the backs of animals.

As we look at the whole drama of human life we are reminded of the Irish story of Orchi, who sits under the earth and continually weaves, weaving life upward and death downward.

For man must pass and it is as necessary that he should die as that he should be born.

THE SARGASSO SEA

(Louisville Courier-Journal)
Into that mysterious mass of seaweed caught in the whirl of the Gulf of Siam and bearing the name of the Sargasso sea, William Beebe will take an expedition of zoologists some time in January next year. It will be as truly a voyage of discovery as that of Columbus, who discovered it on his first voyage. But Columbus saw only the surface, a sweep of continental size, and passed it by as he journeyed between the Azores and the Antilles. Mr. Beebe will look beneath in search of monsters as horrendous as those in the imagination of the early Spanish navigators. It is to be no exploration for hidden treasure in this fabled grave of missing ships, about which has been woven so much romance and adventure, but it will be romance and adventure none the less, and if the expedition be a success there will be mystery and interest aplenty for the most inveterate landlubber.

There have been those who have scoffed at Hugo's conception of the giant squid in "The Toilers of the Sea." Mr. Beebe is looking for just this kind of octopus. It has been known to engage in battle with whales. From the stomachs of these marine mammals have been found fragments of arms as long as twenty-seven feet, indicating a creature measuring fifty-eight feet across. Beyond this evidence, however, there is nothing but the giant squid is believed to lurk beneath the vegetation of the Sargasso sea, and Mr. Beebe is prepared to battle with it just as Hugo's hero did in his imaginative novel.

Rare and queer fish, that explode when brought to the surface because their bodies are adapted to extreme depths of the sea, fish with luminous patches of different kinds of lights, fish with luminous spots on the top of their heads, will be sought by the painstaking biologist, who is able to translate his interest in all forms of life into terms that thrill the fancy of the layman.

Those who have read Mr. Beebe's books, no matter how remote the Sargasso sea may be from their minds, will wish him luck and look forward to his accounts of the expedition.

Insurance Man Held on Absconding With Funds

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—James T. Menlove, the telegram stated, is wanted for absconding with company funds. Menlove denies the charge.

Two Suitors Victims of Jealous Hubby's Rage

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—The body of Joseph Tournaire, 39, was found on the floor beneath his apartment today beside the body of Pierce Biagolar, victims, according to police theory, of Tournaire's insane jealousy of his 21-year-old wife. Both had bullet holes through their heads and a revolver was near Tournaire's body.

Horoscope

Although Mars is in benefic aspect, this is rather a doubtful day, according to astrology. Saturn is adverse.

All the influences are likely to tend toward uncertainty and lack of decision, so this is not a favorable rule for undertaking any big enterprises.

Mars is in a place encouraging great constructive projects, but they may be retarded or even thwarted.

Ordinary matters should be fairly successful before 10 o'clock this morning, but wise men and women will defer the big things in business or professional initiative.

Taurus ruled by Venus today governs the throat and neck, and they who are wise will safeguard the health.

Increase in the number of fatal accidents may be marked this month.

Trouble with mail facilities may be precipitated and much criticism apparently will be leveled at those in charge of the postal service.

Changes in the cabinet at Washington may take place most unexpectedly, for there is a sinister sign that seems to indicate illness of a secretary.

This should be a day in which good ideas for future business enterprises may be entertained.

Both men and women are warned against the encroaching selfishness of the times.

The seers perceive many threatening signs that should cause men and women to consider serious things.

Again love affairs will concern persons of all ages, a sign from which to read danger signals that should prevent increase of the sentimental madness that is always a precursor of war.

Persons whose birth date it is may live rather an exacting year before them, but they can win success and happiness.

Children born on this day may meet with many ups and downs in life. These subjects of Scorpio have, as a rule, very determined traits of character.

Today's Poem

IS IT RAINING, LITTLE FLOWER?
Is it raining, little flower?
Be glad of rain.
Too much sun would wither thee,
'Twill shine again.
The sky is very black, 'tis true,
But just behind it shines
The blue.

Art thou weary, tender heart?
Be glad of pain;
In sorrow the sweetest things will grow
As flowers in the rain.
God watches and thou wilt have sun
When clouds their perfect work
Have done.

Who's Who

When M. Jules Jusserand leaves his post as French ambassador to the United States, after a service of twenty-one years it is expected that Emile Daeschner director of administrative affairs at the Quai d'Orsay, will succeed him. Daeschner's name was submitted to the United States department recently and no reason is apparent why it will not be accepted.

Daeschner is called the best trained diplomat in France. The French realizes a big man is needed to succeed the man who has won much good will for France in his years of service is indicated by the appointment.

Daeschner has had every opportunity to acquire diplomatic skill. For years he was right hand man to the late Paul Cambon in London. Cambon was called the Nestor of French diplomacy.

In addition to having been a pupil of this great diplomat during a particularly important and interesting period, M. Daeschner, during his already long career, has been a collaborator and confidential adviser and chief of bureau of the late Maurice Rouvier and of Raymond Poincare when they were premiers and of Leon Bourgeois, the outstanding French apostle of peace.

His diplomatic education was rounded out by service as first secretary to the French embassy at Madrid and as French minister to Lisbon and Bucharest. He now holds the important post of director of administrative and technical affairs at the foreign office. M. Daeschner is sixty-one years old, taller than the average Frenchman and with a knowledge of English that few of his compatriots ever attain. He is socially prominent and has a most agreeable personality.

World War Veteran Loses Uniform on Armistice Day Eve

On the eve of Armistice day, Ralph Witt, auditor at the Oakmont Country club, lost a uniform from his car. Some one stole from his car Saturday night a suitcase containing his uniform, with all decorations.

Mr. Witt parked his car on Orange street between Wilson avenue and Broadway for about three-quarters of an hour. When he returned he found his suitcase was gone.

He reported today the contents of the suitcase would be of no value to anyone else. He values the case's contents because of memories of the World War which recall. He asks anyone knowing of the stolen belongings to notify him at the Oakmont club, Glendale 128.

Glendale Receives .95 Inch of Rain With Early Downfall

Predictions of a moist season came true early, with continued rainfall since Saturday night. More showers are forecast.

In Glendale .95 of an inch of precipitation was recorded for the present storm early today. This brought the local season's total to 1.75 inches, according to H. E. Bartlett, observer.

Rainfall up until November 10 of last year measured only .59 of an inch, just a little better than half the amount recorded since Saturday night and less than a third of this year's total to date.

Present rain has been of the drizzly nature and continuous. It has been a great relief to crops, according to Mr. Bartlett.

Unappreciative Man Tries to Wreck Jail

An attempt to break down the city jail this morning was frustrated by handcuffing Patrick Wall of Santa Barbara, who had been arrested on a vagrancy charge. In the excitement the Los Angeles sheriff's office sent out the homicide squad, judging murder was being done by the urgency of the appeal for aid phoned in by the Glendale police department. Still handcuffed and vociferously protesting, physically and verbally, the prisoner was led away to the county jail.

Wall was found wandering around the city streets late last night, according to the police report, and was brought in and given accommodations at headquarters. But far from appreciating free food and lodging, he seemed greatly to resent the loss of his liberty and vented his spleen on the jail, say witnesses, with the result that, at the point of his heavy boot, the door gave way with a splintering crash. It was then that Wall was handcuffed and the sheriff's office appealed to for aid.

EISTEDDFOD CLUB, BURBANK, MEET

Glendale District Leaders Lay Ground Work for Permanent Body

Glendale district Eisteddfod leaders met at luncheon Saturday at the Old Stone Inn, Bearmar Hills, Burbank. More than twenty representatives were present, and groundwork was laid for permanent organization.

In addition to the district representatives, Alexander Stewart, executive director of the Southern California Eisteddfod, was present, and also Charles Monroe, general chairman. The meeting was presided over by R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of recreation of Glendale.

After outlining the general program, the following officers were elected: Chairman of music department, Rene Olin, president of Glendale Symphony orchestra; chairman of the drama department, Mrs. Walter C. Fischer, president of the Women's club of Burbank; chairman of the art department, Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president of the Glendale Art club.

Meaning of Eisteddfod
An interesting feature of the luncheon was the contest in spelling and pronouncing the word "Eisteddfod," which means "contest" in music, art and drama.

The next meeting of the district committee will be held November 22, and probably will be held in Tujunga. It is the aim of the committee to meet in the various communities throughout the district and acquaint the people with the Eisteddfod idea.

Plans for entertaining the Southern California regional conference, which is to be held in Glendale, November 15, were announced.

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell is chairman of the committee of arrangements for this conference. Members of the sub-committees will be announced at the next meeting of the committee.

COMMUNITY CO-OPERATION

Trading out of town gives Glendale a bad name as a business center.

Merchants and people of Glendale co-operate to foster good reputation for city.

Realizing the Great Community Development Truth that a City Grows exactly as its Business and Merchandising Institutions Grow, these firms have given their hearty endorsement to the movement for co-operation between Glendale merchants and Glendale consumers

Community Loyalty expresses itself in deeds for the good of the Community

Glendale has a good name (a "jewel of the soul"—as important to a city as to an individual) and her reputation is in the keeping of her people. As long as Glendaleans jealously guard the good name of their city, people from other parts will have a wholesome respect for us and want to become of us. When citizens blacken the character of the home city, outsiders cannot be expected to have any respect for it.

Community Loyalty has been one of the big causes contributing to Glendale's growth in population and importance. Community Loyalty expresses itself in deeds as well as in words.

When you go out of town to buy things you could buy as well at home, you are giving Glendale a bad name. You might as well say, "Glendale is all right but her stores are no good." When you buy in Glendale you are putting your money where it has a chance to do something for Glendale and you are saying in effect, "Glendale has a trading center on a par with cities of much larger population."

It has been conceded by those who give the science of merchandising considerable thought that the Glendale merchants on the whole are holding up their end of the burden of making Glendale a splendid business center. Glendale has developed a merchandising area that has become as notable as her homes.

The people on this page are trying to protect Glendale's good name by conducting places of business and rendering service worthy of the fastest growing city in the United States.

Your trade has helped them and thereby helped to foster Glendale's reputation as a business center. They thank you and ask that your co-operation may continue—that citizens and merchants work together for a Greater Glendale, a Glendale famed for every good thing that enters into the making of a Great City.

THE COMPLETION OF CLINIC MARKS AN IMPORTANT STEP IN CITY'S REMARKABLE GROWTH

With the official opening today of the Harrower Foundation Clinic, Glendale may become the mecca in the medical world of clinical endocrinology. What the Mayo clinic has done for Rochester, so may this clinic do for Glendale. Undoubtedly the completion and opening of this unique institution marks one of the most important milestones in the remarkable growth of this city.

It is distinct in its kind, because there is nothing similar to it in the state. In fact, it is probable that there is nothing exactly like it in the United States.

According to its founder, Dr. H. R. Harrower, who conceived the idea some ten years ago, it is "an institution of research, in experimental and clinical endocrinology," which, in plain language, means that it is a place where disturbances of our body chemistry and nutrition are considered in an unusually thorough fashion, and according to the most approved method.

The study of the glands of internal secretion is being increasingly appreciated both by the profession and the public and as a result of research work in this line the world is learning how to increase height, to reduce weight, to improve nutrition and promote resistance; in short, to regulate the regulators of the chemical works of the body.

Not a Hospital
This research work is, of course, carried out in conjunction with the investigations of the medical staff, and it is expected that physicians from all parts of the country will come to Glendale to participate in the clinical studies and the research work that this institution with its splendid facilities will make possible. Although not a hospital, it has accommodation and ample facilities for the diagnosis and treatment of patients with glandular disorders.

The official opening ceremony will commence at 7:30 this evening, but the building has been open for public inspection since 10 o'clock this morning.

Many of the property and insurance transactions for the Harrower Foundation Clinic were handled successfully by D. R. Sperry of 514 East Broadway, Glendale.

The Sunfast Holland Linen Shades that are used throughout the Clinic were installed by the C. F. Graas Co., the well known firm situated at 212 West Broadway, Glendale.

Laboratory And Clinic Bring National Interest In City

This city has become well known to the medical profession as the home of The Harrower Laboratory and a place where endocrinology and organotherapy are appreciated to the full. It was in Glendale that the Association for the Study of Internal Secretions was originated and founded, that Endocrinology, the first periodical devoted to the internal secretions, was first printed, and that extended research, both in the laboratory and the laboratory, in endocrine subjects has been carried on under the direction of Dr. Henry R. Harrower.

The Harrower Foundation is an organization incorporated in 1921 under the laws of the State of California to carry out certain objects of an educational and charitable nature. In its charter appears the following sentence: "To equip and maintain, for the relief of distress and for the benefit of mankind, and not for profit, metabolic and other laboratories and for like purposes to conduct research and experimentation."

The Harrower Foundation Clinic, then, is an institution of research in experimental and clinical endocrinology, maintained upon a purely non-commercial basis and controlled by this regularly constituted charitable organization.

DOCTOR TELLS OF CLINIC'S FUNCTION

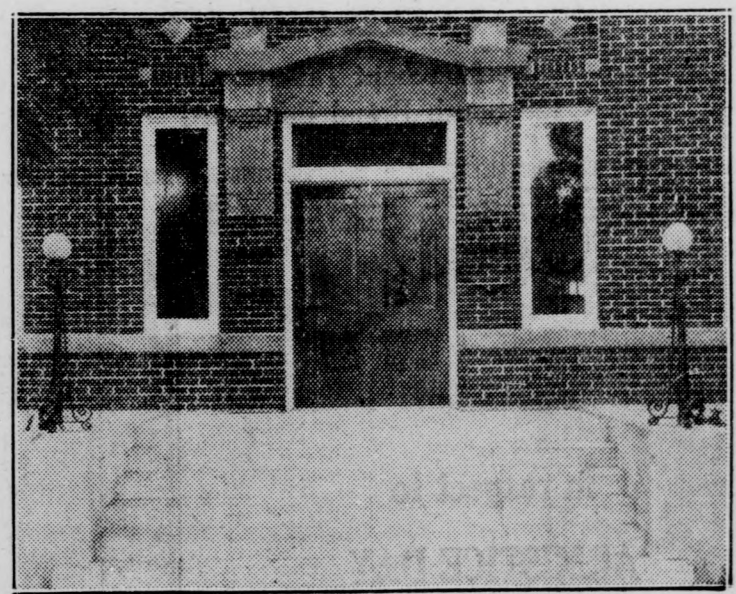

Charlatans Mislead Public
On Theories Of Rejuvenation

Speaking of the function of the Harrower Clinic and its place in the medical world Dr. Herman Achard, managing editor of the Endocrine Survey, said in part: "It is unfortunate that the public has been led to associate the theory and practice of Endocrinology with sex rejuvenation. This is due in part to sensational journalism and to the charlatans who misinterpret important discoveries to further their own business ends. As a matter of fact, the true function is to aid the regular physicians in putting the patients through a thorough searching examination for possible disturbances or malfunctioning of their internal secretion. Following the examinations in our clinic we make suggestions to the particular physician who, in turn, applies the advice, according to his own judgment."

"You see, it is only natural that if we are able to readjust any malfunctioning of the endocrine glands that a reinvigorating takes place resulting in great capacity for work, food assimilation, and keener mentality. It is therefore only in relation to a general revitalizing of the entire organism that one might say sex rejuvenation comes about."

The patients that are brought to the clinic by their own physicians are under examination some times for several days but rare over a week. The very latest instruments of science are used to ascertain down to mathematical units the exact functioning otherwise of some of the endocrine glands.

Front views of The Harrower Foundation Clinic Building, situated at the corner of E. Broadway and Glendale Ave., is two-story high, constructed entirely of brick, being faced in pressed brick, with the laboratory by an ornamental iron bridge. The lobby is finished in quarter sawed white oak. There are 38 rooms, including Science Office, Waiting Rooms. The upstairs is combined Laboratory, E.

CLINIC HAS OFFICIAL OPENING TODAY

PHYSICIANS ARE INVITED TO CLINIC

No Charges Made To Physicians For Clinic Use

The research department of the Harrower Foundation Clinic building covers an area of fifteen hundred and fifty square feet and is situated at the corner of South Belmont street near Broadway. It is equipped with the latest scientific appliances, such as metabolic apparatus, H-ion concentration apparatus, potentiometers, Kjeldahl apparatus, autoclave and sterilizers, incubators, X-ray outfit, Quartz-Ray machines and other modern clinical instruments. All of these are used in the technical investigations by means of which the aims of this institution are to be attained.

Physicians are invited to make full use of the clinic, the institution being open to any registered physician. Post-graduate courses are planned, clinics to be held every day and lectures to the profession given every week. An interested research worker can arrange to spend some time in the various departments, no fee being charged for such study.

There are no charges to physicians for the use of the facilities of the clinic, under supervision of physicians prefer to do so, they may refer certain patients to the clinic, for observation and diagnosis and the patients will be sent back to them with full reports, including recommendations for treatment. The clinic will also accept patients who are unable to pay for the services of a physician, in its dispensary. However, it is hoped that physicians will make full use of the facilities offered and of the co-operation of the clinic physicians.

The clinic will be open for general inspection until 5 o'clock this evening.

The completion of the Harrower Foundation Clinic signifies the materialization of an ideal of its founder, Dr. Harrower. It is equipped and will be maintained for the relief of distress connected with endocrine malfunction and for the benefit of mankind, and not for profit, being controlled as a regularly constituted charitable organization.

Besides this, the institute will be one of the important centers of research and experimental work in clinical endocrinology. It will be conducted with the latest scientific facilities and under conditions that conform to basic ideals.

Rooms Already Reserved

Already every room in the clinic is reserved for weeks ahead by patients hoping to gain benefit, either from diagnosis or from treatment. It should be understood, however, that this institution is not a hospital, that it is not intended for the care of sick patients in the ordinary sense of the word, but for those who are suffering from glandular disturbances, and only such periods of time as are required for observation and diagnosis. The patients are then referred back to their family physicians with recommendations for treatment.

The superintendent of the clinic is H. A. Halk, M. D. His associates are H. C. Christensen, M. D., H. J. Achard, M. D., L. L. Jones, M. D. Besides these, a number of other physicians have signified their willingness to assist in specialized departments of this clinic, several of whom will be recruited from the ranks of Glendale physicians.

The research laboratory is under the direction of Miss E. Abrahadian of Cornell university and Miss R. Malin of the University of Illinois. This research work is, of course, carried on in conjunction with the investigations of the medical staff.

In this new clinic it is proposed to make a study of internal secretions, based upon extended theoretical and practical experience. Facilities are available for every phase of metabolic study, blood chemistry, serology, radiology, and other physiologic research measures.

With the development through the years and the opening today of the epoch-making institution, Dr. Harrower has accomplished what may be considered a busy and successful life work which, we trust, may be extended through many years to come.

CONTRACTORS AND PURVEYOR TO CLINIC

The architecture and engineering on the Harrower Foundation Clinic was done by the well known house of Lindley and Selkirk of Los Angeles.

May and Hellman, Contractors and Builders, of 109 North Maryland, constructed the Clinic at a cost of fifty thousand dollars. This building firm is responsible for some of the best and largest buildings in the state.

The numerous furnishings to the Harrower Foundation Clinic were supplied by The Trice Furniture Company of 118 West Broadway. It is as this company says, "The Trice Furniture Co. continues to justify the preference of people of mature judgment."

The handsome landscaping that decorates the Clinic was the result of the painstaking efforts and skill of E. E. Fram, Landscape Gardener, of 348 West Windsor Road, Glendale.

Attention is called to the firm of The Braun Corporation, purveyors to the Harrower Clinic of the famous Freed-Eismann Radio Receivers. This company has its office at 363 New High Street, Los Angeles.

Compliments to the Harrower Foundation Clinic by

MAY & HELLMAN

Contractors and Builders of the Clinic

May & Hellman have constructed more than $3,000,000 worth of buildings of various kinds in Glendale. These included more than 500 contracts.

Among the buildings erected by this concern is the First National bank building, later the Security and now the Roberts & Echols building, at the southeast corner of Brand and Broadway. This is a 3-story building and cost $35,000. Six schools are numbered in the buildings erected by this concern. These consist of the following: Central avenue school, at a cost of $22,000; Magnolia avenue school, $23,000; Sunland school, $16,000; first unit of the Pacific avenue school, $22,000; Burbank grammar school, $45,000; and the Grand View school, $18,500.

Then there is the Knott building on East Broadway that was constructed at a cost of $7,000; the Wilde building, which cost $7,000; the Harrower Foundation, $50,000; the Los Angeles county building, $25,000, and Redondo high school gymnasium, $40,000.

Naturally we do a general contracting business. We are at this time specializing in factories, school buildings and business blocks. However, we are always glad of the opportunity of bidding on homes, especially those of unusually high character. We have at all times between one and five homes under construction.

We aim at building standards of high grade workmanship and methods of estimating that have proven conclusively that our methods of operation are right. This firm strives at all times to give its clients the most conservative figures, commensurate with good materials and expert workmanship.

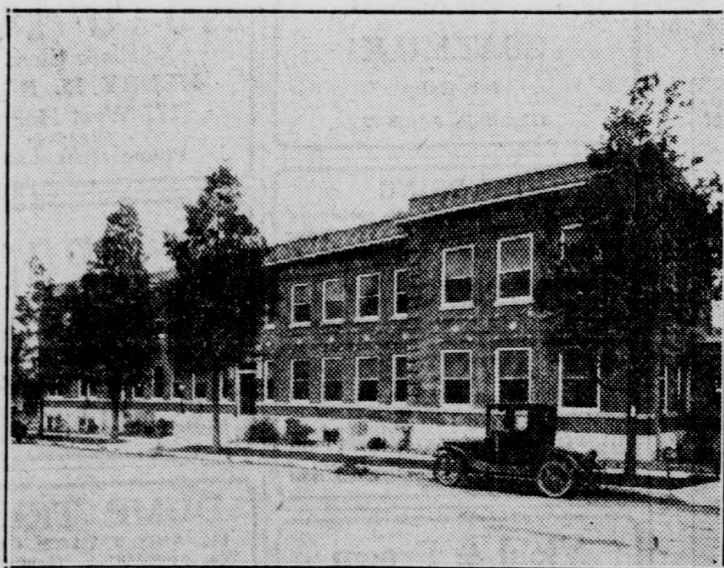

A crew of 50 men is constantly kept busy, and we at all times have an average of seven buildings in course of construction, with a payroll of more than $2,400 per week. This firm is one of the few that handles all its concrete work and masonry, thereby eliminating delays and subcontracting costs.

The conservative estimating done by us is conclusively shown by the fact that during the past six months we have bid on 27 jobs. Of these we secured five, being next to the lowest bidder in eleven.

CHAPTER XV

"One needs to be long-suffering to cope with one's friends," Susan remarked, when an hour later she found herself seated side by side with Grant on a bench at the tennis courts. "Last night you showed marked attentions to a danseuse; this morning you have been flirting disgracefully with that beautiful princess, thereby reducing poor Arthur to despair, and now you propose to devote a few minutes to me for the first time today. I am beginning to fear, Mr. Grant Slattery, that you are going to be a disappointment to me."

"Not at tennis, anyhow," he assured her. "You and I are going to wipe the ground with the Lancaster." "Our thoughts are on different planes," she declared. "I speak of life and you of tennis. I think we shall beat them, if you stand up to the net and don't poach."

"How's your father today?" he asked a little abruptly.

"Quite all right, considering. It must have been a terrible shock to him to see that poor old man collapse with scarcely a moment's warning."

"Naga was a great statesman," Grant remarked. "One of the last of the old school. Come on, it's our court."

On the way across, an acquaintance hailed Grant. By his side stood Count Itash—sometimes called Sammy.

"Slattery, Count Itash says that he has only an informal acquaintance with you and would like an introduction," the former said.

"Count Itash—Mr. Grant Slattery."

Grant held out his hand. The other, after a little how, accepted it. He was an insignificant-looking person amongst the athletic young men by whom he was surrounded, but his eyes, behind his horn-rimmed spectacles, were exceptionally hard and piercing.

"I am glad to meet you, Mr. Slattery," he said. "Could you, before you leave the courts, spare me a minute or two?"

"With pleasure," Grant assented. "We are going to play the best of three sets here. I'll look for you afterwards."

"You are very kind, sir."

"Who's your little friend, Grant?" young Lancaster enquired curiously. "He's the fellow we saw at the Carlton last night, isn't he?"

"That's the chap," Grant replied. "He rejoices in the name of Itash. I believe I have heard that he is attached to the Japanese Embassy in Berlin and is doing secretarial work for their section here. Queer-looking card, isn't he?"

"I expect the poor young man is upset about his Chief," Susan remarked. "What did he want, Grant?"

"Wanted to speak to me," was the indifferent reply. "He's going to wait until after we've finished our three sets."

"You're going to get some part of what's coming to you," Susan laughed. "You took his dancing companion away last night and you spoiled Arthur's luncheon today. Why don't you get a girl of your own?"

"I try," Grant confessed, humbly. "I'm afraid I'm not popular with the sex."

"That's your fault," Susan insisted. "A nicely brought-up girl always likes a well-behaved man. Now get up to the net and remember we've money on this set. Serve!"

The tennis courts presented a gay scene as the afternoon wore on. There was the usual crowd of English people, the women nearly all in white, the men, especially the foreigners, showing a little more variety in their costumes. The sun was shining and every one seemed inspired by the soft exhilaration of the air, the beauty of the glittering blue sea below, and the mountains behind.

There was a crowd too of more elaborately dressed spectators, a fluttering of many-colored parasols, and all the time the cheerful hum of light-hearted conversation in many tongues. With characteristic patience, Count Itash—sometimes called Sammy—sat on his solitary bench and

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

"The Power of Wealth," which opened last night at the tent theater of Murphy Comedians No. 2, is a strong political melodrama. John Hughes, as the young aspirant to the senatorship, was splendid, and was ably supported by Barbara Guernsey as the daughter of the crooked politician, the girl with whom the young man is in love. The machinations of this "old school" politician form the basis for one of the strongest plays this company has yet put on.

Patrons of Murphy Comedians No. 2 are assured by J. W. Davis, manager of the company, that there is ample parking space nearby for all cars. The big tent, moreover, is heated, which makes it very comfortable for theatergoers at this season. The location is San Fernando boulevard at Cedar street, Burbank. The curtain rises each night at 8:15 o'clock.

waited—a solemn, almost ghoul-like figure, on the outskirts of the gaiety. At the conclusion of their sets, Grant, after he had received the congratulations of his partner, went over and seated himself by his side.

"What do you wish to say to me, Count Itash?" he enquired.

"I offer apologies, but I am in some trouble," the young man explained earnestly. "It concerns the lady with whom you talked last night."

"Mademoiselle Cleo?"

"The young lady who is so called," Itash assented. "She has been my companion for some time here in Monte Carlo. I will now be very truthful. I have taken a fancy to another girl. Such things happen."

"Quite so," Grant agreed. "But I can't exactly see how this concerns me."

"It is in this way. Cleo is very, very angry. She knows that I am in the Diplomatic Service—that I am, in fact, occupying a very confidential and important position down here. She makes pretence of having obtained posols, and all the time the cheerful hum of light-hearted conversation in many tongues. With characteristic patience, Count Itash—sometimes called Sammy—sat on his solitary bench and

"I can't understand why he doesn't mention her name anymore—he knocked her on every occasion right up to the time he met her—"

"HE'S A BRUTE THAT'S WHAT HE IS! DID YOU NOTICE HE HAD HIS HAIR TRIMMED TO-DAY?"

"WHAT DO YOU MEAN! JEALOUS OF WHOM?"

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Adam and Eva" which will open at the Tuesday Afternoon club theater with a 2:30 o'clock Wednesday matinee, is a sparkling comedy with a clever plot and snappy dialogue. The play was a New York success, states Mr. Florence Dobinson of the Dobinson Players, and will be presented here with a professional cast that will make it a metropolitan production of the first order. The Dobinson Players are winning larger numbers of friends each week by their put on these big popular plays. It is no longer necessary for Glendale theatregoers to journey to Los Angeles to see a thoroughly good play. Last Friday night the Glendale Optimist club attended the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse in a body to see the Dobinson Players and it is expected that other local organizations will follow suit.

THE GATEWAY

Occasionally Glendale has opportunity to view a photoplay with tremendous settings, an exceptional cast, superbly produced or dramatically brilliant, but last night at the Gateway theatre, to-day and Tuesday, local film lovers had and will have opportunity to view a photoplay which possessed all of these qualities.

For weeks local film fans have looked forward to the presentation of Frank Lloyd's First National picture "The Sea Hawk" with lofty expectations. Last night opportunity to view the much heralded picture arrived.

Never have such scenes as those of the big sixteenth century ships engaged in actual combat with several hundred galleys slaves and fighting men active in the fray, on each ship, been reflected on the screen before. Never have we seen so much appealing action in quaint Algerian settings before and never have we seen a production with so many large groups and so many tremendous settings maintain such a fast tempo throughout without a single lax moment. "The Sea Hawk" is a long picture but it is so full of stirring action it seems hardly longer than the average seven reeler and what transpires on the screen is so realistically done that one is completely enveloped with the spirit of it.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CONCERT

"Hello, Uncle Butter!" called Uncle Wiggily to his great gentleman friend one day, as he saw a pair of horns going down the path. Uncle Wiggily knew horns wouldn't go down a path all by themselves, unless they were carrying horns, and it was too early for them. So he thought it must be Uncle Butter. And so it was.

"Hello!" bleated the goat gentleman, and he stopped so the rabbit uncle could hop up and walk beside him. "Hello! Hello!"

"Are you fond of music, Uncle Butter?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh, I should say I was!" bleated the goat. "Why, if you make your music sweet enough I could eat it for every meal. Have you any music?" Give me a nibble or two, if you have."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You silly goat! Music isn't anything to eat—it's something to listen to."

"Oh, I thought it was something like paste pudding," sighed the goat.

"Not at all," answered Uncle Wiggily. "You listen to music, and I am going to give a concert in my bungalow this evening, when there will be fine music. Don't you and Aunt Lettie want to come?"

"I shall be delighted!" bleated Uncle Butter. "And so will Aunt Lettie. She's very fond of music—I've heard her say so."

"Then come!" invited the bunny, as he hopped along to invite Mr. and Mrs. Twistytail, the gentleman and lady pigs.

"Ha! Music!" grunted Mr. Twistytail. "Is that a new kind of automobile you ride in?"

"No, indeed!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You listen to music."

"Well, we'll come to your concert," grunted Mrs. Twistytail.

That evening many of Uncle Wiggily's animal friends gathered in his bungalow. Nurse Jane met them at the door, invited them in and said:

"Sit down, please! Uncle Wiggily is in the cellar getting the concert ready."

"What sort of a concert is it?" asked Aunt Lettie.

"A cricket concert!" answered the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Uncle Wiggily is keeping a cricket all winter, and the cricket sings in a most jolly manner, and so cheerfully! It's a pleasure to listen!"

"Well, I'm all ready to listen to the music!" bleated Uncle Butter.

But down in the cellar Uncle Wiggily was having trouble.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ARE YOU BEING POISONED?
 Are you suffering from drowsiness and the blues? Is your whole family so irritable that you are almost impossible to live with? Are you suffering from headaches, nausea, extreme weariness, intense drowsiness, with perhaps numbness in your feet and hands, followed by pain in the arms and legs and heart, difficulty in breathing, uncomfortable heart action?

Most likely you have been thinking that colds, "rheumatism," dietary indiscretions, over-exertion and other ordinary things are to blame. In reality it may be they are but contributory factors. Look to your gas fittings, to your furnaces, especially the hot air furnaces, to your gas heaters, to your coal stoves and ranges. It is possible that you are suffering from chronic carbon monoxide poisoning.

There are many deaths from acute gas poisoning. Whole families have been exterminated. Public health has been given to these fatal acute cases, but not so much is known of the dangers of chronic gas poisoning. In recent years, however, this danger is being recognized, and the department of commerce of the United States bureau of standards is organizing, with the representatives of several gas companies, a campaign against the menace of carbon monoxide gas as the chief cause of much unaccountable ill health (Luden).

McGurn, in an article on chronic gas poisonings, states that "grave danger always exists when coal or illuminating gas is inhaled in sufficient quantities to be detected by the normal sense of smell." It is interesting to note that mistake to think that coal gas cannot be present unless it can be smelled. The United States bureau of mines has shown that three out of every five types of gas tubing in common use are dangerous and unreliable, while two out of four types of gas tubing connections are equally unsatisfactory, leaks being frequent.

In the rest of this paper, I am going to quote from Dr. George Luden's article on chronic monoxide poisoning in "Modern Medicine." February and March, 1921, Dr. Luden has personally experienced this poisoning, and she is now, and for some years past, has been making an exhaustive scientific study of the subject.

"Apart from defective gas fittings, tiny rifts in furnace pots, of small amounts of auto-exhaust and the prolonged inhalation of gas, consideration must be given to two sources of carbon monoxide production of which the danger is not realized by the average household, namely, the iron 'breaching' connecting furnace and flue and the ordinary lime-mortar used in the old houses to make the flues air-tight. The iron breaching is corroded by the combustion fumes and becomes porous like old India-rubber. Ordinary lime-mortar is also disintegrated by heat and combustion fumes; its use has been condemned by the building code of the National Board of Fire Underwriters (1915), on account of 'fire-hazard,' but it may be found in many old houses. It is obvious that fire hazard implies the escape of fumes.

"The cause of carbon monoxide production in my house is worth considering because it may easily be duplicated in many American homes. Two furnaces, both situated in the basement, were connected with the same flue. The larger furnace—hot water system—controlled by the central heating; the smaller one furnished the hot water supply. During the damp, chilly days of September, 1919, the big furnace was fired in the daytime only with old wood of which we were forced to dispose; the small furnace, heated with coal, burned night and day. All flues cooled off at night. The additional loss of heat caused by the 'going out' of the big furnace failed to be compensated by the warmth of the small furnace. 'A down draught, produced by the cold, heavier air at the top of the flue, forced the combustion gases into the house. Similar conditions obtain when fires are lighted for the first time in autumn and the flues are cold; they may be produced in any single flue intended to carry off the smoke furnished by two fires of unequal intensity, for the less warm column of air above the smaller fire fails to warm parts of the flue sufficiently and a down draught results. This is not realized by the majority of people and is sometimes overlooked even by architects and engineers."

ST. LOUIS GIANTS BEAT WHITE SOX

Colored Players Score Ten
Runs In Second Frame
In Game Saturday

The St. Louis Giants handed the Glendale White Sox a walloping Saturday afternoon at Good-year park, when the locals lost, 13 to 7. It was a slugfest, with Glendale getting the worst end of the battle. Three pitchers were used by the White Sox, Gomes starting the game, Fife going in to stop the barrage, and Bonnelly doing the final bit of hurrying.

The Giants won the game in the second inning, when they drove ten runs across the plate. The Sox opened the scoring in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Murray, catching for the Giants, led the slugfest with four hits in as many times at bat. Creacy, Bobo and J. Reese lined out triples, while Gomes, Bobo and J. Reese added doubles to the list.

MANY UPSETS IN SATURDAY GAMES

Syracuse Beaten, Illini Tied,
Harvard Swamped, Ohio
State Trampled

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Fate, absolute despot over all things mortal, waved a magic wand on Saturday and lo, there was a hitherto discredited Princeton team playing football such as no Tiger outfit ever played before, Chicago getting a 21-all tie with the great Illini, Rutgers swarming all over La Fayette, Washington getting a tie with California and West Virginia Wesleyan winning over Syracuse.

In consequence of many disasters, Illinois, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Yale, California, Stanford, Alabama and Rutgers remained as unbeaten teams and of these Illinois, Dartmouth, Yale, California and Rutgers have lost caste by playing the games. Two others, Syracuse and Ohio State were beaten for the first time and another pair, Harvard and La Fayette were so thoroughly annihilated by Princeton and Rutgers respectively that they never will be the same.

New Football Capital
If the writer had anything to do with it, which he has not, he would move the football capital to South Bend, Ind., and let his critics do their worst. Notre Dame again showed its downright class by beating Wisconsin 38 to 3 and is riding high on the crest of the national dominance. If any team in the country could have beaten Princeton Saturday that team was Notre Dame.

Men of the wide open spaces of the west will probably take to that statement. "They will point to the fact that Notre Dame was five touchdowns better than Princeton a few weeks ago and that, therefore, not only the Irish but Illinois, Chicago, Nebraska, Michigan and western teams with end could and can beat Princeton. But they missed seeing a modern miracle enacted when Princeton swamped Harvard, 34 to 0, a Princeton that was one thousand per cent better than the team that faced Notre Dame.

If the west accepts Chicago for its so-called moral victory over

New Criss-Cross Puzzle

The only thing worth solving now is how to stop "Red" Grange, the iceman of Illinois, who has been tearing up and down football fields at will. Chicago didn't try to stop him Saturday, just tried to outrun him, and tied the great Illinois eleven, 21 to 21.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for the Evening News.

While the football rule book doesn't specifically ban armored tanks, poison gas and barbed wire entanglements as means of defense, the spirit of the rules is against such devices.

This being the case, the Big Ten eleven which must still meet Illinois are faced with the problem of finding other ways of halting Red Grange and his teammates.

Said teammates don't worry the opposition much. There are only ten of them. But Grange is a bother. Darn him, he's everywhere and like Paddy's flea.

There is the expedient of running a rope across the field like small boys do across the walk on Halloween night.

They might have four tall, skinny lads dressed like goal posts who could leg it every time Grange gets the ball.

Sord's idea of the treadmill has the most possibilities, however. For one thing, it would give Grange a chance to show how far he can run for a touchdown. The present field limits him to 110 yards or thereabouts.

The man who finally does devise a way to halt the Ice Man of Illinois will win more fame than the man who developed the Hunchback of Notre Dame.

'Red' Grange Leading
Big Ten In Scoring

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—"Red" Grange, star of the Illinois eleven, scored three touchdowns on Saturday against Chicago and jumped into the lead in the scoring among the "Big Ten." "Red" now has 72 points, nine more than Rockwell of Michigan. Baker of Northwestern is third with 54 and two points back is Crowley of Notre Dame.

Tariff schedules in Latin-America may be changed by official decree at any time and are sometimes raised or lowered overnight.

Illinois and it should, it must also accept Princeton for what it was on Saturday.

However records will be records and an indifferent early season must rob the greatest Princeton team of the modern generation of national recognition. The Chicago tie, in a lesser sense will deprive the Illini of their top ranking unless Notre Dame, Stanford, Pennsylvania and Alabama are beaten in one of their remaining games.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

There was more uncertainty about that 12-round boxing bill going over than there was about the discovery of America when Chris stepped off his wooden Leviathan and met a Red Skin dressed a la Adam. Chris thought he was in India—that's where promoters of boxing Utopias figured the 12-round bill had gone as rural districts waked and decided election was all over.

'Frisco put the bill over with a bang; ditto A. and Glendale, but out through the tall grass, in the citrus groves and under the alfalfa stacks they voted against this measure as though it passed it would bring about the Millennium.

Twelve-round boxing bouts mean nothing in the life of the rancher who has to beat the milkman and chickens to it every morning to get a good day's work done. If he goes to the bouts he has to take a day off. The city "slicker" might as well call the wife and tell her he won't be home for dinner on the night she has baked biscuits as a rancher to take a day off.

Great indoor sport now popular in the general environment of the cellars should draw a lot of dissatisfaction from the report coming from Vancouver, B. C., stating hop growers are getting sixty-cents a pound for their "em-bryo brewer's" instead of forty cents as quoted last season. If hops have risen in combustion propensities in the same ratio as the price followers of the cellar sport should lay in a supply for Fourth of July, and let 'er bang!

That old-fashioned game of hide-and-go-seek that the boys and girls of James Whitcomb Riley's age got a great kick out of, is all the rage right now among members of that order of husbands and wives whose only mission in life since they said "I do" is to put something over on the other.

Glendale saw a little game in its modern version played the other day when "scare" lines across the Los Angeles dailies informed the "dear public" that a Detroit millionaire was roaming in the wild stretches of land between Glendale and Reno (Nev.) with his pockets bulging with $1000 bills ($100,000 was the grand total—George may or may not have it or not). The party "it" is waiting in Glendale to be "spied on."

A great outdoor sport originated by the Kaiser in his attempt to grab all Europe a few years ago has been revived over in that country where the length of one's whiskers and not the size of one's bankroll tells the story.

DYNAMITE BABES IN TITLE BATTLE

Meet Covina Here Tomorrow
To Decide Champions In
110-Pound Class

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

A real gridiron battle is slated for tomorrow, when the local "firecrackers" square off with the Covina babes on Broadway Field to decide the 110-pound championship of the Central League. Coach Wolfe of the locals has developed a classy little eleven, which threatens to dispute the title of any team its size in this part of the state.

Coach Burley Covina mentor, boasts a verily light team, nevertheless, most of his players are the "kid brothers" of the Covina heavyweight stars who gave the Dynamites such a fight last Friday. Coach Burley stated that his team will probably not average over 100 pounds; on the other hand, Wolfe's outfit will average 115. Although heavy, the locals have a fast backfield.

Alley Lovell is the mainstay of the Firecrackers' offense. His line bucking and place kicking ability have proven one of the most valuable factors in the Glendale scoring. Killinger is also one of the big guns of the locals. Both Dick Stearnland, who calls signals, and Bill Mainland, right half, are fairly light, fast men, who figure in big gains on end runs.

Team Lineups
Dick Wyckoff and Nathan Finch, who have won positions on the wings, snag passes and do such other errands for the backfield on the offense, are prominent in breaking up opposing plays on the defense. George Laas, fighting Glendale center, is one of the best men on the Firecrackers' line. The lineup:

NOTRE DAME AND U. S. C. GAME OFF

Tournament Committee Says
No Arrangements Were Made for Battle

PASADENA, Nov. 10.—Although announced last week that the football teams of Notre Dame and University of Southern California would meet here in the annual east-west classic New Year's day, it was learned today definite plans for such a game have not been made. That Stanford will play either Notre Dame or Illinois, or Idaho be selected as the western team was reported.

The Tournament of Roses committee, in charge of the contest, was scheduled to meet this afternoon to make a final decision. Defeat of U. S. C. by California and St. Mary's college of Oakland was said to have resulted in a hurried meeting of the tournament committee. Members of the committee declined to comment on its plans but said an announcement would be made later.

Benkert Tops Eastern
Teams In Grid Points

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Thanks to his two touchdowns against La Fayette on Saturday, Benkert of Rutgers today held the lead among the high scorers of eastern football. He has scored two touchdowns and four goals for a total of 94 points, nineteen points beyond Tryon of Colgate. The remaining leaders: Bruder, West Virginia, 71 points; Krause, Pennsylvania; Koppish, Columbia, and Oberlander, Dartmouth, sixty points each; Farley, West Virginia, fifty-nine points, and McBridge, Syracuse, 57 points.

'Daddy' Vance with friend wife and all the little Vances, hit Santa Ana on all six last week. Uncle Robbie's moundsman who pitched 'em dizzy in Heydler's division of the Big Leagues last summer, expects to spend the winter in the town made famous by Movie Star Bebe Daniels when she was flushed up the "hoosgow" to look like the dressing rooms of the Shuberts' Winter Garden after she got $30 or 30 days' a few years back for driving through this town with four breaks on. Bebe took the "30-days" end of the purse and sent for her press agent. "Daddy" promises not to duplicate the incident.

Rob McGraw, backstop for that unit of the American association that makes 'em throw pop bottles around the city where eventually if not now comes from, thought the following wire was important enough to print: "I'm off for Cuba to play on 'wet grounds.' Bob gets the TNT football."

Bay City Capitalists Planning Big Arenas

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—A group of capitalists headed by Louis R. Lurie, millionaire realtor and theatre owner, will construct prize fight arenas in San Francisco, Oakland, Fresno and Los Angeles, Lurie announced. The venture will call for an investment of $3,000,000, Lurie said. Each arena will be situated in a central part of the city and, according to present plans, will house between 5000 and 10,000 people.

A nationally prominent fight promoter, it is said, may lease the arenas and place under his wing some of the best boxers in the country. The fight cards will be switched around so as to give the fans in each of the cities in which the arenas are built, the best cards available. Construction of the arenas will probably start within thirty days, Lurie said.

COAST MAGNATES MEET IN SEATTLE

Transfer of Salt Lake Club,
Oakland Franchise to Come Up at Session

SEATTLE, Nov. 10.—For the first time in history, magnates of the Pacific coast baseball league will meet this afternoon in annual session at Seattle, with President Harry A. Williams in the chair.

A number of important matters will be considered, among them the probable transfer of the Salt Lake club; the possible purchase of the Oakland franchise by Walter Johnson; adoption of the 1925 playing schedule including the length of the season.

While there is hope of a peaceful session, rumblings of a renewal of "politics" that all but wrecked the league in 1923 would not come as a surprise, as it is pretty generally understood Tom Turner, new owner and director of the Portland club, is friendly with the "little three" composed of San Francisco, Sacramento and Vernon. Turner's vote with the southern trio would create a deadlock with the deciding ballot to be cast by Prexy Williams.

CARDS AND BEARS TO SETTLE TITLE

California and Stanford to Meet Nov. 22 for Top Place Now

By MILLER HOLLAND
For International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—Upsets continue to be the order of the day in Pacific coast football as the season begins to take final shape. One thing appears certain, however, at this stage of affairs. With California and Stanford the only undefeated eleven in the conference it looks now as if the championship of the coast will not be decided until these two teams clash in their annual big game November 22. Idaho and University of Washington are the next ranking eleven. California meets Nevada next Saturday and Stanford takes on Montana, the last encounter before the Bear and Cardinal mix it up between themselves.

What many football followers consider the biggest surprise of the year was sprung Saturday when the "fighting Saints" from St. Mary's college, Oakland, handed the powerful University of Southern California eleven, a decisive beating, the northerners knocking the Trojans for a couple of goals and emerging triumphant on the long end of a 14 to 10 score after a terrific battle.

California's freshman team came to grief Saturday when the Stanford Babes trimmed them, 16 to 0, in Palo Alto. The Stanford varsity had an easy time with Utah, beating the visiting firemen to the tune of 30 to 0 in California stadium at Berkeley.

Idaho beat University of Oregon Saturday, 13 to 0, in Moscow, Idaho. The Vandal team is one of the strongest on the coast and has displayed remarkable football all season.

Seeks Deer But Finds Many Thrills

made 2000 miles in a month's time, visiting Zion national park and the Grand Canyon as well as stopping in Utah towns.

"The people of Utah treat you fine," says Sydney Williams, who was an employee of The Glendale Evening News circulation department when it was deemed advisable that he take a long rest for his health. "There are three girls for every fellow and dancing every night, it seemed."

In addition to the wonders of Zion national park, where they became lost one night, the two tourists also visited the cliff dwellings of the aboriginal residents of the western deserts. The Garden of the Gods, petrified forests, Indian villages and other interesting sights were seen on the trip, which was made over the Arrowhead trail.

Three rifles, a 38 Colt revolver and a shot-gun comprised their hunting equipment. They shot deer in both Utah and Arizona, but were unable to bring the meat with them because of the closed season here. Plentiful hunting in the western states is to be had, they report.

Friends will be glad to learn that young Williams' health is greatly improved by the trip. Both men came home tanned and wearing beards that would be a credit to pioneers.

New York Upholds Law Aimed at Ku Klux Klan

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The Walker law, aimed at the Ku Klux Klan by the state legislature, is constitutional, according to a decision handed down today by Supreme Court Justice Charles A. Pooley. The law requires filing of membership of secret societies with state officials.

Question of legality of the Walker law was raised by George C. Bryant, king klegale of the Klan here, in a habeas corpus proceeding following his arrest for its violation.

Buck Harris to Pilot Senators Next Season

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Stanley (Bucky) Harris, boy manager of the Washington American league team, has signed a new contract to manage the team next season, it was learned today. While details are withheld Harris will receive a substantial increase in salary.

TUJUNGA, Nov. 10.—A beautiful wedding Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock joined in wedlock two of the most popular young people of the Verdugo hills when Miss Frances Morgan became the bride of Carroll W. Parcher, both of Tujunga.

The ceremony was at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace M. Morgan, on Los Robles avenue. The house was decorated and special artistic effects were created on the grounds, where the ceremony was performed under the oak trees. Dr. Henry Wieman, a relative of the bride and who holds a chair at Occidental college, read the marriage service.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Wallace M. Morgan, a well-known newspaper publisher. Miss Morgan was attended by Leona Feichter of Bakersfield as maid of honor; Miss Louise Saele, Hollywood, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Helene "Frankie" Tujunga, bridesmaid; Mrs. James W. Women Spend Most of Money, Records Show

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Who spends the money in the United States? Women spend 85 per cent of it, answers Miss Mary L. Downes, High Chief Ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, one of America's large fraternal societies operated both for and by women. The fair sex is more and more the money investing half of the domestic sketch, the expert asserts.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Nov. 10.—A survey of the Annandale district, costing $10,000, is to be made under supervision of the Los Angeles engineering department, it is announced, and a profile map of the sixty-seven streets in the district is being prepared.

When the Annandale district was incorporated with Los Angeles there were no city maps available and in consequence the city engineer had no profile upon which to map out the work on sewers or any street development projects in the section. Annandale, unlike Eagle Rock, which was an incorporated city, was part of the county. In consequence there was less attention paid to the maps on the district. The contract for the survey has been let to J. Reymann, who will work under the direction of the city engineer's office.

The local end of the Community Chest drive started today, with H. G. Warren in charge. The drive will continue ten days.

All Eagle Rock funds are to be handled by J. B. Hudson, assistant manager of the Eagle Rock branch of the Security Trust & Savings bank. During the drive Mr. Hudson is to report daily to the downtown headquarters just what Eagle Rock is doing.

Circle No. 313, O. E. S., is holding a bazaar in the new Masonic Temple on Friday and Saturday, November 14 and 15.

A dinner will be served Friday night and a dance will given on Saturday night. An orchestra has been secured.

The following women are to be hostesses: Mrs. M. T. Lee, general chairman; Mrs. H. S. Bourne, fan-cywork booth; Mrs. W. F. Hansen, apron booth; Mrs. C. H. Gaylord, cooked food booth; Mrs. F. F. Rickart, candy booth; Mrs. R. D. Morris, dinner; Mrs. J. C. Kraus, fish pond; Mrs. A. R. Rose, parcel post; Mrs. A. D. Tate, dance, and L. V. Ryther, hope chest.

The Tuesday Afternoon Bible class meets every week at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. I. Little, 5181 N. Hartwick avenue. The class is inter-denominational and is conducted by Mrs. J. Rhea Baker, teacher of wide reputation. All women are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Benson have returned from their month's vacation spent in Oregon, where they state it rained every day. They were glad to get back to Eagle Rock's sunshine.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Nov. 10.—A communication has been received by the City Trustees from the Boosters' association, asking that setback lines be established fifty feet on each side from the center line of the following thoroughfares: Alameda avenue, Verdugo avenue, Burbank boulevard, Magnolia avenue, Empire street, Hollywood way, Buena Vista avenue, Victory boulevard, Lincoln avenue, Olive avenue, San Fernando boulevard.

This becomes in effect a move to widen each of these thoroughfares to 100 feet. The communication was backed up by the personal plea of L. H. Boydston, president of the Boosters' association, who stressed the need of vision in considering highway development.

The trustees were inclined to receive Mr. Boydston's suggestions favorably and asked him to circulate a petition requesting action on such a plan, whereafter official action might properly be taken.

William Bright and William Cribbs have arrived here from Santa Cruz and will spend a week or two visiting with the families of B. P. and E. D. Mues. Mrs. Bright's son and daughter accompanied them but have gone to San Diego for a short stay and will join the party for the return north.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Dorr of Harvard road have left for a two weeks' eastern trip. They will go to Chicago and return by way of Denver and the Grand Canyon. Business and pleasure will be combined on the journey.

Suppress Lotteries In Irish Free State

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—Eighteen months ago it seemed likely that Dublin would outrival Monte Carlo and other European resorts in its attractions to the gambler and the "sweepstake fan," but the Free State government has ordered a rigid enforcement of the Lotteries act. This means that there will be no more sweepstakes, ballots, or prize drawings, whether for charitable or other purposes.

Society Girl Starves To Look Fashionable

VIENNA, Nov. 10.—Fraulein Alexandrine von Meyer-Ketschen-dorf, a 22-year-old girl prominent in Austrian society, has killed herself in her endeavor to be fashionably slim. She was slightly overweight, and her desire to be in the fashion led her to take large doses of patent anti-fat cure. At the same time she drastically reduced her diet with the result that she was undernourished and slowly starved.

Sunkist Trail Paving Defeated at Election

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 10.—The proposed highway amendment which would have made possible the paving of the Sunkist trail from Hassayampa to the Colorado river crossing at Blythe was defeated at Tuesday's election, it was made certain today.

FORMAL OPENING OF CLINIC TODAY

New Institution Founded by Dr. H. R. Harrower for Medical Study

sociation for the Study of Internal Secretions, in 1916, the Bulletin of which (Endocrinology) was published in its first issue in January, 1917, with Dr. Harrower as its managing editor.

"It may readily be understood that, to Dr. Harrower's practical and active nature, the mere scholastic study of these problems, no matter how attractive they were, could not prove satisfying; and soon he set about to produce the necessary concrete means by which these studies might be made practical, that is to say, he organized a laboratory for the production of endocrine remedies.

This became the Harrower Laboratory, the beginnings of which were founded in 1918, and in which the remedies mentioned were prepared for the clinical use of physicians and of those physiologists who desired to study the remedies experimentally. The Harrower Laboratory had its first home at the corner of Glendale avenue and East Broadway, above the Bank of Glendale, now the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank.

"Whether Harrower the irresistible, as his friends often call him, simply would not be gainsaid or whether he made use of the psychological moment, hardly needs discussion. The important fact is, that physicians at once took up the remedies prepared by the Laboratory and their clinical use, knowing that they could accept Dr. Harrower's word for their honest composition at its face value. And that is an enviable reputation that not every producer of medicinal agents can boast: the dependability, purity, and excellence of his products.

"The work of the Harrower Laboratory proved so successful that facilities had to be increased very soon, and after only three years, on November 28, 1921, the concern moved to its own new and commodious quarters which it now occupies at 920 East Broadway.

"Time flies swiftly these days, more so, it seems to us, than it used to; and things happen more rapidly and crowd themselves to one's attention in never-ending sequence. Not content with his practical and business success, not satisfied with having provided the means for the correction of 'endocrine' wrongs in the sick organism, Dr. Harrower desired to make these benefits available to many to whom otherwise they might not come. Furthermore, he desired to create more opportunities for deliberate and careful investigation of this particular class of problems and, finally (and here his idealistic nature shows itself), he wished to make some return for the great success that had come to him. So in 1921 the Harrower Foundation was organized and incorporated as a charitable organization under the laws of California. This institution has as its purpose to equip and maintain, for the relief of distress and for the benefit of mankind, and not for profit, metabolic and other laboratories and other facilities to conduct research and experimentation."

The Harrower Foundation is entrusted with the dispensing of the income from an endowment, also provided by Dr. Harrower privately, with which the Harrower Foundation Clinic is to be conducted on entirely charitable lines, with no thought of monetary profit. The Harrower Foundation and, likewise, the Harrower Foundation Clinic, have no connection with the Harrower Laboratory. The purpose of the clinic is to make the results of related studies available for the benefit of the sick and also to study its patients carefully with all the means that modern science has put at our command, in order to acquire exact information as to "what ails them," so that their treatment might be planned and carried out according to the most approved manner.

Dr. Harrower really needs no introduction to the city of Glendale, since he has been one of the most active factors in its development. He was largely instrumental in bringing the Southern Pacific passenger station here; and the same is true of the postoffice. It was partly through his efforts that East Broadway was developed; many public enterprises owe their inception and their development to his inexhaustible energy. In the medical world, Glendale is known as the place where the most potent and the most reliable endocrine preparations are produced. It will be known likewise as the city which possesses the first clinical institution of this kind, in which diseases that owe their existence to irregularities in the ductless glands are carefully studied.

All Spain Fighting Against Illiteracy

MADRID, Nov. 10.—Grave concern is felt at the enormous number of illiterates in Spain. Latest census figures published show that of the total population of 21,338,381 people, no fewer than 11,145,444 people confessed to having received no elementary education. In Barcelona 26.69 per cent of the population is illiterate. More than four thousand new schools are provided for in the new estimates. It is intended to withhold suffrage from those not attempting to learn to read and write.

Connecticut Spends $5,000,000 on Roads

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 10.—Connecticut will be able to use some five million dollars for good roads next year. The money is available out of payments to the state by motorists. Of the motor department receipts nearly $150,000 came from fines from motor-law violators. Licensed motorists, numbering 231,304, paid the state for licenses an increase of $45.00 in a year.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Partial paralysis of his legs, which makes necessary the helping hand of a friend even when he uses crutches, does not prevent Dr. Ross Jewell, registrar of Syracuse university, from meeting his classes every day. Every day he comes and goes to his class of English students in the coupe of one of his undergraduate aides.
